

The Caves of Rift Creek

Here are the four main caves of the Rift Creek area.

At the extreme bottom end of The Right Stuff is a "seasonal dig" connecting to The Other Stuff — a small passage which was opened several years ago but which seems to back-fill with sand and gravel with every winter's floods.

The lower end of Castoff will almost certainly be connected with The Right Stuff — pleasant digging is afforded from The Right Stuff side.

The chances of connecting The Big Cheese into this system, however, seem fairly slim. Big Cheese and Right Stuff are almost 150m apart as the crow flies, and would-be connecting passages in both caves are quite small in dimension.

RON KOZSAN

